It is not safe to assume that this condition of affairs will last much longer. The bond market this week showed a considerable increase in the demand for both high grade issues and those of a less substantial character. The dealings in bonds have averaged nearly $400,000 par value per day, and for the week they are more than twice as large as last week. Prices for bonds have also advanced considerably during the last six days. It is claimed by some that the movement described has been due largely to the certainty that institutions and individuals that have large amounts of money to invest came to the conclusion early the week that they would not secure any of the new Government bonds for which they had applied. Their investments in railway and other bonds, if judiciously made, are certainly warranted by the various trade reports and statistics that are constantly coming to hand. The volume of business as indicated by bank clearances is much larger than a year ago, and quite larger than in 1892. Bailway traffic returns for the first half of the year, as far as reported, show an increase of about 13% Weent, as compared with the corresponding period of last year. The fact that exports of merchandise for the fiscal year just ended were more than twice as large as the imports of the country shows in an unmistakable way the growing tendency of the United States in its commercial relations with other countries. Prices of staple goods are in the main well maintained, and the commercial community generally is looking forward to a satisfactory fall business, now that the last element of uncertainty as to the outcome of the war with Spain has been removed. The weekly statement of averages of the Associated Banks does not show as large a loss in lawful money as had generally been expected on account of the transfer of large sums to the Treasury in payment of the new bonds. The decrease in cash is only $4,000,000. At the same time the banks have increased their accommodations over $8,000,000. The deposits do not reflect these changes, being very nearly the same as last week. The net result brings the surplus reserve a little below $50,000,000, but that item is obviously large enough for all possible con-To-day's stock market was dull and in the main heavy. In no stock did the total transactions foot up 10,000 shares. Room traders made a fresh demonstration against the anthracite coal stocks, and were successful in lowering the prices for them 1@21 7 cent. As compared with the final prices of last Satprday, the entire list is lower. The trading in cotton continued quiet to-day, but prices fluctuated within a somewhat wider range than recently, with the tendency downward. A dull and lower market in Liverpool, favorable crop reports, a bearish weather summary by the Chronica and selling for London and Southern account led to local selling and prices declined, the close being barrly steady at the lowest figures of the day. Wall sirect also sold. Light rains were reported in the Mississippi Valley and in Texas and the Signal Service predicted showers to-night in the southern pertions of Mississippi and Louisiana and near the coast of Texas, but on the other hand the weather in the Atlantic States and the eastern Gulf States was clear as a rule and fair weather is indicated for the next thirty-six hours in nost sections of the ention belt. Still the speculation was anything but settly. Bears are timid about selling freely in spite of the admittedity favorable prospects for the crop, for there is yet ample time for the yield to be cut down materially by the unfavorable weather during the balance of this month and in August. The cheapness of the price, too, checks free selling. Rome, Ga. July 13.—"Grop prospects were never better at this season, plenty of rath has fallen, and two weeks of dry weather would now be in order with us." Augusta, Ga. July 13.—"Wonderful change in weather took place to-day, and temperature is now ideal. Predictions indicate constant of rains throughout the entire southeast Atlantic; if so, crop will go on in its perfect condition, as no harm has yet been done. Augusta, Ga. Brooklyn Companies Get Together to Prevent an Impending Rate War.

President Ethen Allan Doty of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company in Brooklyn has announced the transfer of that company's plant to the Kings County Electric Light and Power Company. The negotiations had been under way for some weeks. The terms are not stated. This deal virtually consolidates all the electric light interests in Brooklyn. The Kings County Company secured its franchise about four years ago. Two years later it passed under the control of a syndicate, including Vice-President Hobart, ex-Gov. Flower, Seth L. Keeney, and William Berri. It was announced that the company would make a cut in prices. When the bids for electric lighting were one ned a few months ago it was found that the Kings County Company was the lowest bidder. Its plant was not large enough to carry out the contract, and it was engaged in negotiations to lease the Manicipal Company's property when the Elison Company stepped it and purchased the latter outright. In view of a rate war between the Edison and the Rings County companies, the plan of consolidation which has just been successfully carried out was arranged.
